

It's Your Moment in History

A black and white photograph of a bride and groom kissing in front of a large brick building with many windows. The bride is wearing a white wedding dress and holding a bouquet of flowers. The groom is wearing a dark suit. The building behind them is a multi-story brick structure with numerous windows, some of which are arched. The scene is set on a paved street.

Create a one of a kind event.

Let the Ford Avenue Piquette Plant provide your event with a timeless backdrop—an urban industrial setting steeped in the past where guests can walk the same floors a young Henry Ford walked, sit in the driver's seat of a Model T, and mingle where an invention that would forever change the world was born. It's a setting that is signature Detroit and can be found nowhere else.

Our Story.

The Ford Avenue Piquette Plant was built in 1904 by the fledgling Ford Motor Company. It was here that Henry Ford would produce several car models- including his most famous automobile- the Model T. Once outside the plant's walls, the Model T started a revolution that would put the world on wheels. When demand for the Model T exceeded the plant's capabilities, Ford moved production over to the Highland Park Plant. The Piquette Avenue Plant was bought by Studebaker and then later used as a warehouse until it fell into almost total disuse in the 1990s- gradually becoming just another industrial building succumbing to the elements. In 2000, the Plant was saved through the work of members of the Henry Ford Heritage Association. It is now a National Historic Landmark that operates as a museum and learning center.
