FORD PIQUETTE AVENUE PLANT MUSEUM

Birthplace of the Model T

Create a one-of-a-kind event.

Let the Ford Piquette Avenue Plant provide your event with a timeless backdrop—an urban industrial setting steeped in the past, where guests can walk the same floors a young Henry Ford walked, sit in the driver's seat of a Model T, and mingle where an invention that would forever change the world was born. It's a setting that is signature Detroit and can be found nowhere else.

Our Story.

The Ford Piquette Avenue Plant was built in 1904 by the fledgling Ford Motor Company. It was here that Henry Ford would produce more than a half-dozen revolutionary automobiles — including his most famous, the Model T, the car that put the world on wheels. When demand for the Model T exceeded the plant's capabilities, Ford moved production to Highland Park. The Piquette Avenue Plant was bought by Studebaker and later used as a warehouse until it fell into disuse in the 1990s, gradually becoming just another industrial building whose significance was lost to history. In 2000, the Plant was saved from imminent demolition through the efforts of the Henry Ford Heritage Association and volunteers. It is now a National Historic Landmark that operates as a museum and learning center dedicated to celebrating Detroit's automotive heritage and spirit of innovation.
